He stepped slowly out to the brink of the ledge, and standing on one leg with the other leg hidden under his wing, he closed one eye, then the other, and pretended to be falling asleep. Still they took no notice of him. He saw his two brothers and his sister lying on the plateau dozing with their heads sunk into their necks. His father was preening the feathers on his white back. Only his mother was looking at him. She was standing on a little high hump on the plateau, her white breast thrust forward. Now and again, she tore at a piece of fish that lay at her feet and then scrapped each side of her beak on the rock. The sight of the food maddened him. How he loved to tear food that way, scrapping his beak now and again to whet it.  "Ga, ga, ga," he cried begging her to bring him some food. "Gaw-col-ah," she screamed back derisively. But he kept calling plaintively, and after a minute or so he uttered a joyfu scream. His mother had picked up a piece of the fish and was flying across to him with it. He leaned out eagerly, tapping the rock with his feet, trying to get nearer to her as she flew across. But when she was just opposite to him, she halted, her wings motionless, the piece of fish in her beak almost within reach of his beak. He waited a moment in surprise, wondering why she did not come nearer, and then, maddened by hunger, he dived at the fish. With a loud scream he fell outwards and downwards into space. Then a monstrous terror seized him and his heart stood still. He could hear nothing. #### SECTION III: POETRY

Q3 A) Read the following stanzas and do the activities.

5 Marks

A1) Match the pairs:

No.	'A'	'B'
i	We should keep	The unforgiving minute
ii	We should not lose	with crowd
iii	We should talk	the common touch
iv	We should fill	our virtue

Or, being lied about, don't deal in lies, Or, being hated, don't give way to hating, And yet don't look too good, nor talk too wise;

If you can dream—and not make dreams your master; If you can think—and not make thoughts your aim; If you can meet with triumph and disaster And treat those two impostors just the same; If you can bear to hear the truth you've spoken Twisted by knaves to make a trap for fools, Or watch the things you gave your life to broken, And stoop and build 'em up with wornout tools;

If you can talk with crowds and keep your virtue, Or walk with kings-nor lose the common touch; If neither foes nor loving friends can hurt you; If all men count with you, but none too much; If you can fill the unforgiving minute With sixty seconds' worth of distance run-Yours is the Earth and everything that's in it, And—which is more—you'll be a Man, my son!

The Twins

In form and feature, face and limb, I grew so like my brother, That folks got taking me for him, And each for one another. It puzzled all our kith and kin, It reached a fearful pitch; For one of us was born a twin, Yet not a soul knew which.

One day, to make the matter worse, Before our names were fixed, As we were being washed by nurse, We got completely mixed; And thus, you see, by fate's decree, Or rather nurse's whim, My brother John got christened me, And I got christened him.

This fatal likeness even dogged
My footsteps when at school,
And I was always getting flogged,
For John turned out a fool.
I put this question, fruitlessly,
To everyone I knew,
"What would you do, if you were me,
To prove that you were you?"

Our close resemblance turned the tide Of my domestic life, For somehow, my intended bride Became my brother's wife. In fact, year after year the same Absurd mistakes went on, And when I died, the neighbours came And buried brother John.

Mother Teresa was awarded the 1979 Nobel Peace Prize in recognition of her good work. The winner, chosen from among fifty-six nominees, including US President Jimmy Carter. She is the sixth woman in the world and the first citizen of India to get this highly esteemed prize since it was instituted in 1901.

Born of Albanian parents in what is now Yugoslavia, Mother Teresa came to India fifty years ago. There she taught Geography in a convent school. In 1947, she gave up her teaching career and moved in to the slums of Kolkata to serve God among the poorest of the poor. Later she became an Indian citizen.

Today, after thirty years of sustained efforts, the order, which is best known for its home, grown up to be a very big organization - running schools, hospitals, youth centers and orphanages around the world.

Mother Teresa is a frail- looking but energetic woman who talks little of herself. She is regarded as a saint by her followers, she always tells them humbly what she does is actually God's work.
